2. Existing papers and previous discussions on this subject were reviewed and it was finally agreed that it would be best if Messrs. Bannerman and Karamessines could meet by themselves and talk over the proposals. The program, from our point of view, seems to be operating in a very effective manner, and with one or two minor exceptions it would seem that present procedures already incorporate the points suggested by Mr. Karamessines.

3. Mr. Bannerman agreed that he would contact Mr. Karamessines and invite him to drop by for a tete-a-tete in the next few days. No further staff work is necessary to prepare for this meeting.
